KOM 2000 copyright and availability

The KOM 2000 software is available free of cost including source code for download via the Internet. Recipients must sign this copyright agreement before getting access to the software. Recipients may not redistribute the software without permission from DSV. DSV may in the future change these copyright conditions, but in that case, those who already have obtained the software can keep it.

KOM 2000 contains certain freely available code which we are not allowed to redistribute, and which you might thus get directly from its owners when you install KOM 2000.

DSV takes no responsibility for errors in KOM 2000 or problems which such errors might cause you.

I want a copy of the KOM 2000 source code and certify that I accept these conditions.
